
AUTHORS

Jón Atli Jónasson (Iceland)

Jon Atli Jonasson was born In Reykjavik, Iceland, in 1972. He dropped out of high school and began working as a fisherman, pizza-baker, heavy metal DJ and road constructor. In 2001 he made his debut with

Titles

SURF

Surf

RAMBO 7

During a raging blizzard, the Icelandic Ministry of Defence calls Johnny – an art student, recently returned from Holland – and informs him that his brother Julius is missing in action. While Johnny is waiting by the phone for news, Honey – a beautiful young woman– appears from Johnny's father's bedroom, and Julius' friend Pesi – on the run from two drug dealers – knocks at the door. This is a unique play about addiction, dreams and escapism – and three young people in a complex world, trying to find their place.

THE DEEP

In this moving, everyman's odyssey we witness a day in the life of a fisherman, a day in which a ship sinks and friends and colleagues drown. A day in which, against all odds our protagonist survives. We join the sole survivor in his struggle against the ice-cold water off the coast of Iceland and as his faint hopes of survival dwindle we witness his regrets, his fear of loneliness and his dreams. This is based on a true story.